

Betit is an iOS application designed to test your knowledge on topics you master. Challenge your friends with real money, place bets on odds for almost anything, Win and earn back on top of your bets.

We worked in conjunction with Lift Media to produce this application, Our responsibilities involved creating various aspects of the app based on pre-determined design guidelines. This project expresses our talent for keeping with a cohesive design.

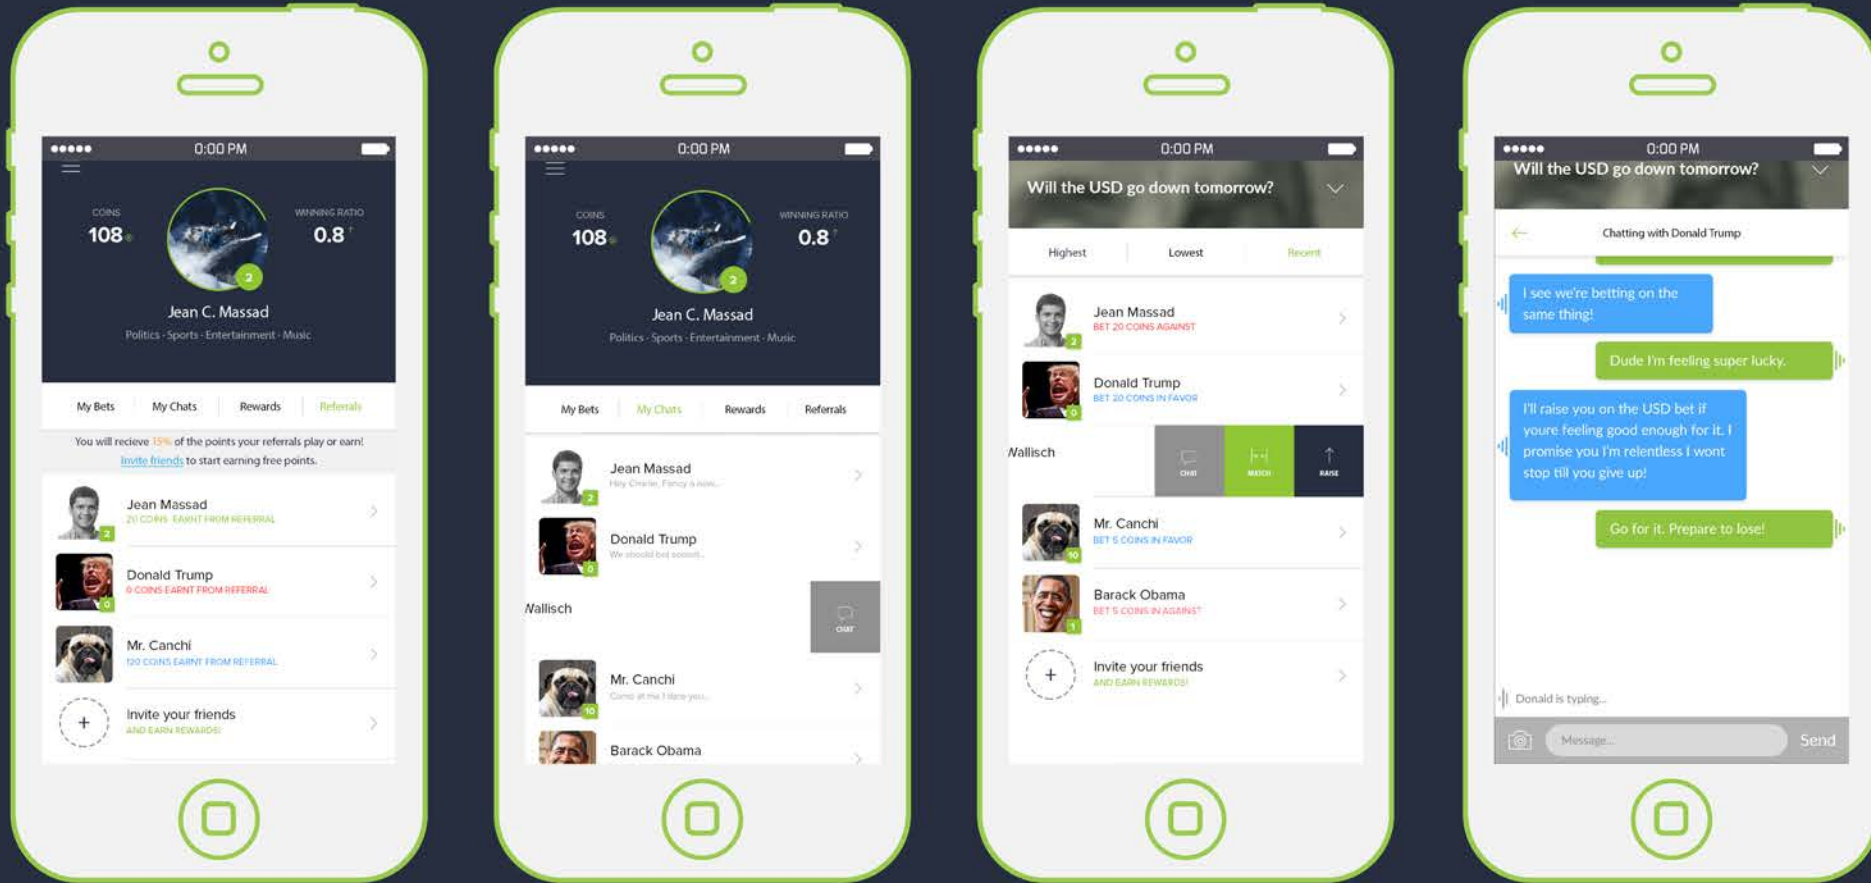

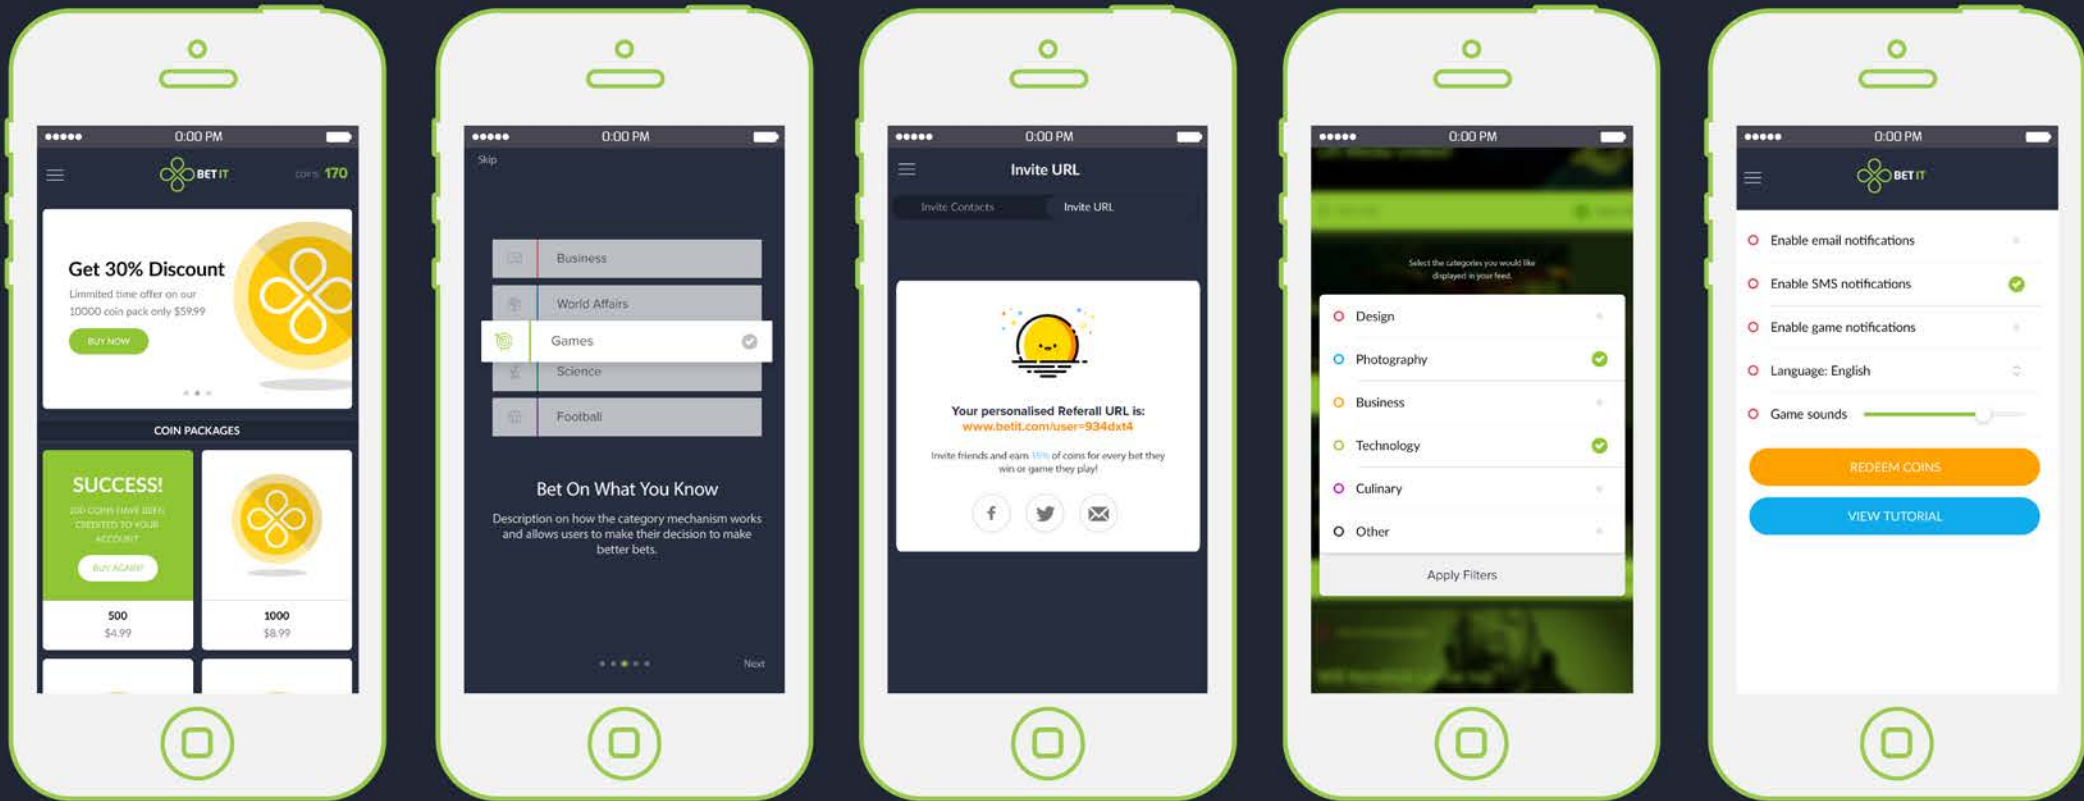

Foxul works very well to a specifications. If you're mid way through a project and need extra talent to speed up the process, we're happy to match your existing aesthetic to ensure a clean, cohesive and consistent product. Above are examples of the core design style and direction.

Working closely with both Lift Media and the client BetIt we were able to achieve an indistinguishable likeness to the current design. The follow work demonstrates this skill.

Many of the scenes we developed were those that were missed during initial development, such as popup displays, extra features and amendments.

We would like to give a thank you to Lift Media for taking us on with this great project.

